Business lines

In addition to traditional and online corporate travel services, BCD Travel provides the following independently managed business operations:

Consulting

Our consulting practice, Advito, brings BCD Travel's reputation for business acumen to life by offering advisory and project management services designed to optimize strategic and operational performance. We listen first, and then prescribe a program that is customized to the unique needs of an organization's travelers, culture and strategic goals. We help our clients manage the impact of industry dynamics and take control of their program's overall performance. Our pragmatic approaches, measurable outcomes and efficient stakeholder management create clear blueprints for success.

Meetings & Incentives

Whether clients require a turnkey registration tool, travel planning and operations management, a memorable corporate event, or a strategically managed meetings solution, our BCD Meetings & Incentives experts offer a full continuum of services. We meet customer demand for a meetings and incentive organization that acts globally, aligns regionally and services locally.

Whether large or small, meetings generate mountains of data: locations, registrations, itineraries, catering, communications and more. BCD Meetings & Incentives is the only meetings and incentive company to align and deploy a global, integrated meeting management technology platform. Our experts put this technology to work for clients, allowing them to access, analyze and act on the dynamic data their meetings are producing – and to leverage future negotiations and track total return on investment.
